RUSS RENEW RETREAT UPON WHOLE LINE

Teutons Prepare Drive on Warsaw as Enemy Gives Way.

PURSUIT IS CLOSE ONE.

LONDON, June 27.—The Russians are again retreating in Galicia, both to the north and south of Lemberg, and in Poland the Germans have launched another attack against Warsaw in the form of a drive from the north through Przasnysz. The new blow at the Polish capital has been preceded by a terrific artillery action. The fact is recorded by the Russians themselves, but it is too early to say whether it means a serious offensive, the first clash having developed a bayonet encounter, the result of which neither side records.

Berlin and Vienna do not make reference to the conflict in this region, confining their statements to the Galician situation, where victories are claimed in various sectors from the Bessarabian frontier to Rawa Ruska, north of Lemberg.

Germans Cross Dniester.
What is more important, the Germans claim that the Teutonic forces have crossed the Dniester northwest of Halia and have driven the Russians some miles into the hills.

The present consensus of opinion among military writers in London is that Germany intends further to press her eastern victories with another battering ram stroke toward Warsaw in an endeavor to seize that city and the whole line of the Vistula.

The line of offensive now directed from the Przasnysz region is along the valleys of the Omulew and Orzy, tributaries of the River Narw, which flows across north Poland and joins the bend of the Vistula above Warsaw.

M'CORMICK DENIES TALES OF RUSSIAN ATROCITIES.

"Tribune" War Correspondent Says He Saw No Evidence Murders Committed in Galicia.

(By Cable to The Chicago Tribune.)
LONDON, June 28, 3 a. m.—Robert M. McCormick, war correspondent of The Chicago Tribune, who has arrived here after a long visit in Russia, writes in the Times that he is surprised to hear in England rumors of Russian atrocities in Galicia. He traveled extensively in Galicia during the Russian occupation, visiting Lemberg, Przemysl, and the Carpathians. Nowhere, he says, did he find evidence of anything like atrocities.

LATEST NEWS OF THE WAR.

LONDON, June 28, 5 a. m.—The Petrograd correspondent of Reuter's Telegram company sends the following:

"Several ministerial changes are impending. Some representative politicians are expected to be appointed under the cabinet reconstruction, after which the duma will be convoked."

ROME, June 27, via Paris, June 28, 1:20 a. m.—The Giornale d'Italia publishes a note declaring the assertion that cipher telegrams to the holy see are not allowed to pass is untrue. They are passed by the censor undisturbed, as has always been the case.

ATHENS, June 28.—A Greek deserter from the Bulgarian army who arrived at Salonika states on July 12 Bulgarian maneuvers on a large scale will take place at Novorokop.

No Big News in This Story, but It's Pleasant Reading

James Blaney, lately a reveler in a sinful world, visited the East Chicago avenue police station yesterday of his own accord. He beamed out of a half-closed eye, smiling crookedly by reason of a cut and swollen upper lip—as the desk sergeant looked him over.

"Come tomorrow morning for a warrant—no court Sunday," said the desk sergeant, having diagnosed the case to his own satisfaction.

"No warrant is needed," replied Blaney. "The Lord strengthened my arm and I conquered the dago!"

"What's the trouble, then?"
From his pocket Blaney drew a tiny watch suspended from a pin set with diamonds. He passed it reverentially through the wicket and withdrew his hand quickly.

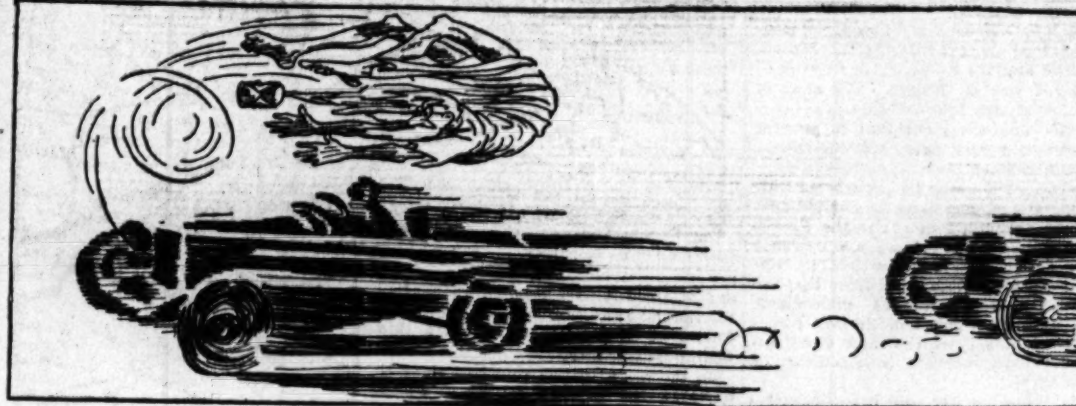

He Was Tempted.

"I am glad to be rid of it," he sighed. "I thought I was strong in the faith—but I was tempted."

"When did you get it?"
"I got the watch and the shaded lamp—the bum eye, I mean—about the same time. I was walkin' over on the other side of Clark street when I spied it, lyin' in the gutter. The lady that owns it must have dropped it while she was gettin' out of her auto, I guess."

IKE WILL BLOOM BUT NOT IN CITY

Freiberg's Famous Restaurateur Starts Roadhouse; Chicago Too Moral.

Ike Bloom has grown weary of his life in the city. It has been some little while now since he has been actively identified with the business enterprises of our city—ever since former Mayor Harrison closed up Freiberg's last fall. Ike's white front dance hall in Twenty-second street in the erstwhile shaded light belt was known as Sandy Hook to Golden Gate.

Since Ike failed to bring about a reopening of his place by madcap proceedings, he has had plenty of time to think things over.

A Moral Town, Says Ike.

He has decided Chicago is the most moral metropolis in the world. He's decided to go back into the "game." But not in Chicago. According to plans, Ike will open a roadhouse in Burnham, a southern suburb recently reputed to be "putting on airs."

THE WEATHER.

MONDAY, JUNE 28, 1915.

For Chicago and vicinity: Fair Monday, Tuesday partly cloudy; not much change in temperature; gentle to moderate easterly winds.

For Illinois: Partly cloudy Monday and Tuesday, probably with local showers in the southern portion. Expectation for 24 hours to 7 p. m.: 60. Mean temperature, 70; normal for the day, 60.

BARTENDER AT GROGAN'S GETS FREE RIDE IN AUTO.

Barney Goes Along and Sees Beer Dispenser Booked in New Liquor Violation Case.

"Barney" Grogan last night rode to the Desplaines street police station in a hired automobile. In the machine with him were Detective Sergs. John L. Sullivan and Joseph McDonald, together with George Randall, well known dispenser of drinks, and Nicholas Starck, drinker of beer.

BISHOP TOLL DIES AFTER SERVICE

Venerable Clergyman Expires from Stroke in Elevated Road Station.

The Rt. Rev. William E. Toll, suffragan bishop of the diocese of Chicago of the Protestant Episcopal church, died yesterday at 4:30 o'clock at the Adams street and Wabash avenue station of the elevated railroad.

Bishop Toll was returning from Downers Grove, where he had conducted a service, in apparent perfect health. He was stricken with heart failure as he was ascending the steps of the station. Two men rushed to aid the bishop, but when they reached his side he had expired.

Takes Bride to Cleveland.

He took his bride to Cleveland, where he preached for a year. Then he went to Sycamore, Ill., as rector of the church there, and later went to Waukegan, Ill., where he remained several years, coming to Chicago in 1881, having been appointed archdeacon of the diocese. He held several assistant rectorships in Chicago, never being inactive, prior to his consecration as suffragan bishop.

HELD ON BOND CHARGED WITH REVOLT PLOT

Taken by Soldiers at El Paso with Orozco; Put in Fort Bliss.

DENIES EYEING MEXICO

El Paso, Tex., June 27.—[Special.]—Gen. Victoriano Huerta arrived in El Paso today—not as the leader of a new Mexican revolution, as it is alleged, but as the prisoner of the United States government. With him was detained Gen. Pascual Orozco.

Gen. Huerta and his aid were met in the morning at Newman, N. M., by federal officials, accompanied by a squad of cavalrymen, escorted to El Paso by automobile, interviewed on their presence on the border, and then taken to Fort Bliss, to be held pending an investigation.

As Gen. Huerta walked from the federal building to his automobile to start for Fort Bliss he was greeted with hand clapping and cheers by hundreds of Mexicans in the street, who likewise expressed their approval with numerous cries of "Viva Huerta."

Charged with Plotting Revolution in Mexico.

A few hours later formal charges of inciting a revolution against a friendly country were filed against them by special agents of the department of justice and they were arrested.

Gen. Huerta and his aid subsequently were freed, when $15,000 bond was furnished at noon for the ex-dictator and $7,500 bond for Gen. Orozco.

Huerta's Arrest Ordered by President Wilson.

Tonight comes word from Washington that the arrest of Huerta and Orozco was taken in accord with direct orders of President Wilson. El Paso officials were instructed to prevent him from crossing the border into Mexico by any means.

Coincidentally dispatches from Washington said that other arrests may follow. Secret agents of the government in New York and in Texas cities have gathered information which is regarded as indicating a plot for a wholesale disregard of the neutrality laws of the United States.

The charge made by the Villa and Carranza agencies that Huerta and his companions had arranged for a force of several hundred armed men to cross the border and attack Juarez or Ojinaga is in part confirmed by information forwarded to Washington officials, advices here say.

U. S. Attorney Gives Orders for Charges.

Formal charges were filed against Huerta and Orozco on instructions from the United States district attorney at San Antonio. The accused were taken before George Oliver, United States commissioner, and their bond approved and their hearing fixed for Thursday, July 1. Surety was furnished by Ike and Frank Allderete, Max Moye, and Rudolfo Cruz.

BLOODY MEXICO

A Thumb Nail History by Floyd P. Gibbons, The Tribune's War Correspondent

Mexico today, torn by revolution, is the traditional Mexico of the last four centuries. The seed sown by the Spanish conquerors of the Aztecs, but for one quarter century of armed peace, under the iron will of Porfirio Diaz, has borne a continuous harvest of blood and murder.

Yesterday the United States took the first decisive action on the Mexican situation since the abandonment of the Bryan policy of watchful waiting. A new Mexican revolution was nipped in the bud.

Victoriano Huerta is now a bonded prisoner of the United States. Before Diaz there were fifty-two presidents and rulers of Mexico in the first fifty-nine years of the country's independence. An incident in the long procession of murder, assassination, revolt, and devastation prior to Diaz was the execution of Maximilian, brother of the present emperor of Austria. This was Napoleon's contribution to the blood soaked soil of the land of manana.

With the abdication and flight of Porfirio Diaz five years ago Mexico started on her present joy ride of murder and pillage, of rapine and assassination, of devastation and destruction.

The succession of "liberating" rulers of recent date came next. They were De la Barra, Madero, Huerta, Carranza, Gutierrez, Garza, Chazaro. These men have followed one another into the bloody discard by assassination, revolution, and exile.

The first attempt to inject the much desired "new freedom" into Mexico came in 1911, when De la Barra was appointed provisional president in an effort to reorganize the new government from the crumbling ruins of the old Diaz regime. He never had a chance.

Francisco Madero, with the combined old federal army and various revolutionary bands succeeded him in the presidency by what was called the first honest election held in Mexico since the coming of Diaz.

Huerta, the commander of the federal army, was retained in command by Madero. Huerta rewarded this act by bringing about the arrest and assassination of Madero. He then coerced the Mexican parliament into naming him Madero's successor. Six months later he was in flight to Europe with as much of the national treasury as could be carried away. During his brief regime he brought down the wrath of the United States through an insult to the stars and stripes. The occupation of Vera Cruz by the United States army and the shelling of the city by the navy followed. This was done to enforce a salute to the flag. The salute was never given.

Carranza succeeded to the blood stained, cognac soaked mantle of the fugitive Huerta. He announced that he would resign as soon as the various chiefs could decide on a president.

Carranza then came into power as the nation's executive. His support was based on a reconstruction of the rebel bands, under the name of "Constitutionalists." The reconstruction was short lived.

The break with Villa soon followed. With the splitting up of the Constitutionalists rebel bands sprang up in all of the provinces. Although Villa and Carranza were the strongest contenders, the switching of the allegiance of these bands from one side to another made them important factors.

In Mexico today there are fighting one another Villistas, Carranzistas, Obregonistas, Zapatistas, Constitutionalists, Conventionalists, the Yaqui Indians, and the Mayo Indians. During these five years of conflict many American lives have been sacrificed and millions of property belonging to them and other foreigners destroyed.

The arrest of Huerta only stops the head of a new faction from recovering a strangle hold on a country steeped in five years of wanton, useless bloodshed.

released at once from the brigade headquarters at Fort Bliss, where they had been detained since noon. Gen. Huerta was driven to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Luis Fuentes. Orozco was taken to the home of friends.

Huerta Denies Charge of Heading Revolution.

Huerta was asked if he was one of the leaders of the new Mexican revolutionary movement. He shook his head and responded:

"Absolutely no! I will never enter Mexico at the head of an armed force. I have retired from the field as a soldier unless my country should need my services against a foreign foe. I am anxious to return to Mexico. It is my home. But I will never return until after peace is established. This may take five or six years."

Declares He Comes to Visit Daughter.

"You say you have no intention of entering Mexico in the present revolt; then why do you visit El Paso?"

Huerta shook his finger emphatically.

"I came to visit my son-in-law and daughter. I think I have a perfect right to do that. I am en route to the San Francisco fair."

escorting the general towards El Paso. Conferences were held by Mexican leaders and then a large throng assembled near the federal building, where Huerta and Orozco were taken.

Mayor Lee, fearing that there might be a demonstration that would start a riot, requested that the general be taken to Fort Bliss until the department of justice could indicate what should be done with them. This request was granted, and the Mexicans were taken to the fort.

BOND EASILY ARRANGED.
After Washington had been consulted, charges of violation of the neutrality laws were made against Huerta and Orozco. The men soon arranged bonds and were released.

The release of the Mexican leaders caused nearly as great a stir in Mexico and American circles as did the news of their detention earlier today.

JUAREZ CELEBRATION ENDS.
A public demonstration in Juarez about the hour Huerta's train was due to reach this city ended as suddenly as it began. There were hurried conferences among Mexican leaders on both sides of the Rio Grande. Many guards admitted that Huerta's detention was of the utmost importance, but none would comment on its possible effect on Mexico.

Americans were freer in their comment. They reviewed the recent activity along the border of the adherents of the Cientifico party in Mexico, including the disbursement of considerable sums of money for a variety of purposes, the discovery of machine guns and rifles in an El Paso warehouse owned by a member of that party, and the appearance of Gen. Ynes Salazar in western Chihuahua.

They recalled the activities of Gen. Orozco, Carrasco, and Salazar in the recent anti-Madero revolution and their subsequent service during the Huerta regime.

DATE FIXED FOR REVOLT?
For several days there have been persistent reports that June 28 had been fixed as the date for far-reaching developments at Juarez in connection with the so-called third revolutionary movement.

Some observers professed to see a close relation between this movement and the arrival of Gen. Huerta. They expressed the opinion that his detention had prevented such a consummation by removing the possibility of Gen. Huerta's participation in such a movement, despite his declaration that he had no intention of attempting to cross into Mexico.

HUERTA AT NEWMAN EARLY.
Huerta reached Newman at 6:40 a. m. and readily agreed to the request that he and Gen. Orozco accompany them to the customs office in El Paso for a conference.

The general was informed that he was not being placed under arrest, but was to be given every courtesy as their guests on the drive to the city.

"Ah, soldiers; fine!" exclaimed the general, spying the cavalrymen as he alighted from the train.

"War is not at all," said Huerta during the drive to the city, at mention of the American civil war. "That made of the United States a greater nation than it could otherwise have been. Perhaps the civil wars of Mexico may likewise benefit my country."

TALKS OF EUROPEAN WAR.
Of the European war he said: "No good can come from that conflict, for when it ends all countries involved will lose."

Only a brief stop was made at the El Paso Club for refreshments. Then the automobiles sped to the home of Gen. Huerta's daughter and proceeded to the federal building without incident.

NEWS "PLEASES" ANGELS.
Boston, Mass., June 27.—"I am overjoyed at the news. You may say that I hope the United States government will keep them all locked up," exclaimed Gen. Felipe Angeles, who is visiting his family here, when informed tonight of the detention of Gen. Huerta and his family at El Paso.

Gen. Angeles declared he had nothing to do with the reported intention of Huerta adherents to start a military movement in Mexico.

YAGUI OUTRAGE REPORTED.
Guaymas, Mex., By Radio to San Diego, Cal., June 27.—Advises received here by messenger from the interior state that 200 Yaqui Indians raided the mining town of Saule, 100 miles inland from Guaymas, assembled the 300 inhabitants and stripped every one naked, then, while a detail guarded the gathering, others looted the town, packing everything transportable on a pack train.

When the raiders departed they took with them four young girls. No casualties are reported.

The Indians approached the town mounted, with bugles flourishing and drums ruffing. The inhabitants assumed they were a body of troops approaching to protect them and offered no resistance.

Capt. Ashley Robertson of the U. S. S. cruiser Colorado and Maj. William N. McKelvey of the marine corps, accompanied by three other officers, motored through the American settlement in the Yaqui valley today to investigate conditions. They found everything quiet. The settlers have built barricades of bags of grain around their houses and all houses are loop holed.

Mexican troops now garrison all the farms in the valley and no further raids are expected, as the rains have set in.

The settlers all express a determination to remain and fight the Indians if necessary.

MEANS A NEW U. S. EMBASSY.
BY ARTHUR SEERS HENNING.
Washington, D. C., June 27.—[Special.]—Although he has abandoned "watchful waiting," President Wilson still finds in Victoriano Huerta an embarrassing obstacle to the accomplishment of a new program for the pacification of Mexico.

What to do with Huerta, who is under detention by the federal officials at El Paso, is the question that is now bothering the administration and disturbing the tranquility of the president's vacation at Cornish, N. H.

Incidentally, it was disclosed during the day that Mr. Bryan resigned as secretary of state chiefly because the president and the cabinet decided to abandon "watchful waiting," the sole foreign policy the premier had originated and influenced Mr. Wilson to maintain for more than two years.

Action of State Department.
It was admitted officially tonight that the detention of Huerta on suspicion of organizing a military expedition on American soil for participation in the Mexican revolution was the result of steps taken by the state department. The reports of Huerta's intentions were communicated to the state department by the Carranza and Villa agents here several days ago.

LOSSES IN MEN SET BY REVIEW AT SIX MILLION

One Year Ago Today Assassin Fired Bullet That Drew Ten Nations Into War.

The following review of the European war, starting with the assassination of the Austrian archduke and his wife one year ago today, was compiled by the Associated Press:

One year ago today the Austrian archduke, Francis Ferdinand, and his wife were shot and killed in the little Bosnian town of Sarajevo by Gavrilo Princip. It was the act of Princip, the poor student, which ultimately resulted in nations going to war. These nations are on one hand, Great Britain, France, Russia, Serbia, Japan, Belgium, Italy, and Montenegro, and on the other, Germany, Austria, and Turkey.

The war to date, according to conservative estimates compiled from the best available reports, has caused a loss to the various belligerents of more than 6,000,000 men, dead, wounded, and prisoners, and more than 600 ships. Of these about 120 were war vessels.

The outstanding results on land are these: The greater part of Belgium is under German control. Germany has been driven from the east.

A part of the Dardanelles is in the possession of the allied troops.

Parts of France and Russia are in the possession of German troops.

A strip of Alsace has been taken from Germany.

On the continent of Africa parts of territorial possessions have been lost by both sides.

Various island possessions of Germany have been taken by the forces of the allies.

Italian troops are in possession of a strip of Austrian territory.

Results of War at Sea.
The outstanding results at sea are these: German and Austrian mercantile shipping has been driven from all the open seas.

German and Austrian war vessels having a total displacement of approximately 257,000 tons have been destroyed.

War vessels of the allied nations having a total displacement of approximately 192,000 tons have been sent to the bottom.

The greater parts of the German and allied fleets in the North sea remain intact.

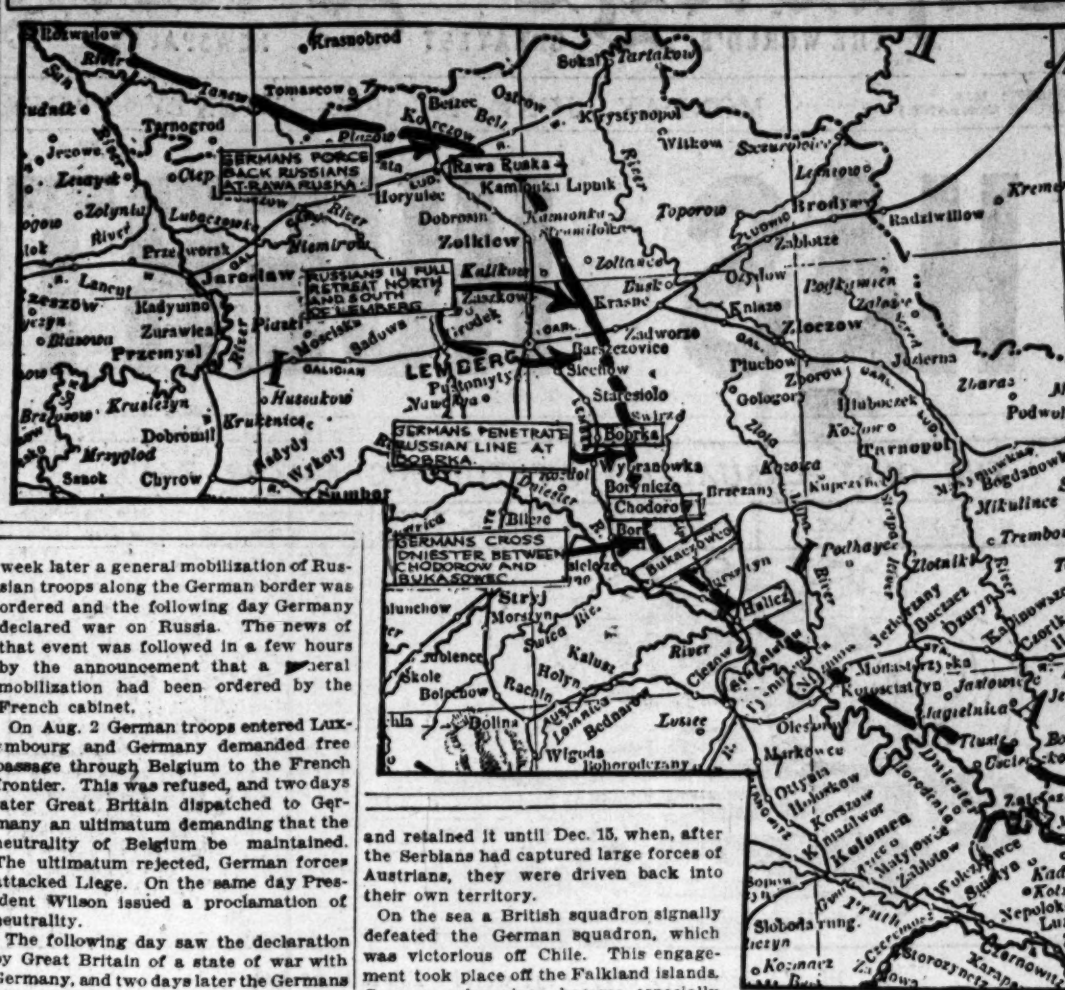

Except for communication through Holland and the Scandinavian nations Germany is cut off from the rest of the world.

Efforts on the part of the Germans to place the British Isles in a similar predicament have resulted in the sinking by submarines of hundreds of vessels flying the flags of the allied and neutral nations.

The sinking in this manner of the Cunard liner Lusitania, with the loss of more than 100 American lives, precipitated a request on the part of the United States that such practices, in so far as they might menace Americans, be stopped.

Troop Movements Start.
Princip's crime was done on June 28. An investigation disclosed what was alleged to be proof that the assassin was the tool of a group of Serbians. On July 23, after considerable correspondence and negotiations, an ultimatum was sent to Serbia by the Austro-Hungarian government, which Serbia declined to meet. A week later a general mobilization of Russian troops along the German border was ordered and the following day Germany declared war on Russia. The news of that event was followed in a few hours by the announcement that a general mobilization had been ordered by the French cabinet.

On Aug. 2 German troops entered Luxembourg and Germany demanded free passage through Belgium to the French frontier. This was refused, and two days later Great Britain dispatched to Germany an ultimatum demanding that the neutrality of Belgium be maintained. The ultimatum rejected, German forces attacked Liege. On the same day President Wilson issued a proclamation of neutrality.

The following day saw the declaration by Great Britain of a state of war with Germany and two days later the Germans entered Liege as the French invaded southern Alsace.

These events were quickly followed by an affirmation on the part of Italy for her neutrality, by an Austrian invasion of Serbia, and by the sending by Japan of an ultimatum to Germany. This had to do with the German possession of Kiautschow, of which Tientsin was the port.

By Aug. 17 the first British expeditionary force had completed its landing in France. A few days later German troops occupied Brussels, the Belgian capital.

The British troops began a retreat from Mons and from then until Sept. 12 the German troops were in the possession of Belgium.

A German troop drove through France under the leadership of Gen. von Kluck. They swept over Longwy and reached Senlis, thirty miles from Paris, where the columns swung to the eastward.

The French government fled to Bordeaux.

In the meanwhile German and Austrian troops had met the Russian army at Tannenberg, which lasted three days.

Germans Forced to Retreat.
Before the French and British troops the Germans in France were forced to retreat as far as the Aisne. The Germans inaugurated a siege of Antwerp and the Belgian government moved to Ostend and then to Havre, France. Forty-eight hours later the Germans captured Ostend. The Germans in Russia meantime had been defeated after a ten days' battle before Warsaw.

During the latter part of October the British dreadnaught Audacious was sunk off the Irish coast; the Russians successfully attacked Lodz and Radom, driving out the Germans. Turkey joined the war at that juncture by naval operations in the Black sea. Odessa was attacked.

November opened with a German naval victory over a British squadron off the coast of Chile, and the Turkish warships bombarded Sebastopol. On Nov. 5 Great Britain and France declared war on Turkey.

Intrrenched for the winter, the armies contented themselves principally with holding the positions they had gained. In the Serbian-Austrian campaign there was considerable activity during the early winter months. The Austrians occupied Belgrade, the Serbian capital, on Dec. 2

TERRIFIC BATTLE WITH HAND BOMBS LOST BY TEUTONS

French Report Tells of Fight for Position Near "Labyrinth"; Repulse at Arras.

PARIS, June 27.—A terrific battle in which both combatants resorted to the use of hand grenades was fought by the French and Germans last night in the vicinity of Queneviers and near the recently captured German positions called "the Labyrinth," according to the official statement issued by the French war department this afternoon.

The report adds that a German surprise attack on Arras, near the Lorraine border, failed, and that twenty bombs were dropped by French aviators on the Douai and neighboring railway stations.

The fighting yesterday and last night at the Calonne trench was violent, developing in some cases into hand to hand encounters. The Germans made use of flaming liquid and, sheltered by clouds of fumes, reached their former first line. They were repulsed with heavy losses.

The French held all the former first German line, as well as those parts of the second line which they had previously conquered.

Admit Loss Near Arras.
"To the north of Arras," the statement says, "the Germans have succeeded in getting a footing again on the Creux d'Abbaye road to Angres."

"Between the Oise and the Aisne great activity was displayed during the night, after a combat in which hand grenades were used, an attempt was made by the Germans to advance from their trenches. The attempt was repelled."

"In the Argonne forest, at Bagatelle, the Germans made an attack of extreme violence early in the night. After a struggle they were repulsed. In Lorraine the enemy, after firing a number of incendiary shells at Arras, attempted a surprise attack on the town. The attempt failed."

Report Issued in Berlin.
BERLIN, June 27.—The official statement issued by the war headquarters today said:

"Enemy artillery stationed in the neighborhood of the cathedral at Arras was bombarded by us. One storehouse for mines was blown up."

"In the Argonne, northeast of Vienne-le-Chateau, a portion of a trench was taken by storm and maintained against several enemy counterattacks."

"In the Meuse hills attempts by the enemy to recapture territory on both sides of the trenches, which we took June 24, were frustrated. We took the enemy by surprise yesterday with an attack on the ridge of hills directly southeast of Les Eparges. After a short fight this ridge was in our hands."

HELL OF DEATH FOLLOWS DRIVE OF GEN. JOFFRE

German Wall of Iron and Blood, Slightly Bent, Stands Between Arras and Ypres.

BY KARL H. VON WIEGAND.
(Copyright, 1915, by Press Publishing Company (New York World).)

HEADQUARTERS OF AN INFANTRY
DIVISION OF CROWN PRINCE RUP-PRECHT'S ARMY, near Souchez, opposite Heights of Lorette, June 22.—Germany's wall of iron and blood between Arras and Ypres is holding. It has bent a little, but has not broken, nor even cracked, under the terrific battering ram of attacks by Gen. Joffre and Gen. Franch.
Joffre's offensive, now rapidly waiving, has resulted in a deluge of blood, but little else. Today I looked into a veritable "hell of death," as the little stretch of three or four miles between Neuville and the Heights of Lorette is called by the Germans. It deserves the name.

In no other place in this war has there been such a merciless, desperate combat, nor has so much blood flowed to the square yard as in this spot.

With a Bavarian Duke.

Accompanied by Capt. von Bunsen, a nephew of the former Prussian ambassador at Vienna, I came from the grand general headquarters. At dawn this morning the young Duke Luitpold of Bavaria, an officer in an Uhlan regiment, but now attached to the headquarters of Prince Rupprecht, joined us. Lieut. Gen.
von Bunsen, whose division bore the brunt of the ceaseless French attacks on the line from Neuville and the southern edge of the Lorette heights of the last five weeks, met us and himself offered to guide the duke and myself to the best observation points. Gen. F. wanted an inconspicuous spot, so requested Capt. von Bunsen and Col. B. to remain behind and asked the duke and myself to follow him. He passed near A., and went on in the direction of Souchez, where we went up into a sandy, low-lying structure.

General Explains Lay of Land.

Gen. F. explained the lay of the land and the operations in great detail.
There was the village of V., less than a mile from us, just beyond the edge of Neuville. Directly in front we looked down on Souchez, over the ridge of Car-sart, and to the left were the now famous Lorette heights.

The top of the ridge and the greater part of the slope were held by the French and British, the Germans clinging tenaciously to the foot. To the left, on the slope, are the skeletonlike ruins of the chapel of Notre Dame, and still closer to us what's left of the walls of Souchez and the sugar factory mentioned so often in the official reports. It changed hands some days since. Around it every foot of ground is drenched with French and German blood, while in the extensive cellars the most desperate hand to hand conflicts are said to have taken place.
At present the French are in possession of the heights.

Gen. F. directs my attention to some dark spots, visible against the barren slope of the Lorette heights.

10,000 Unburied Bodies.

"On the ground between the Lorette heights to Neuville and the Laubythrin," he explains, "are perhaps 10,000 unburied or partly buried dead. The stench is possible. By the use of a hose, we've thrown creosote or quicklime on some of our trenches. As a matter of self-preservation, both sides lately appear to have come to an unspoken agreement to bury those nearest at night."
Gen. F. is a ghastly beyond imagination.
Words can't portray to the mind that picture; by day and night white eyes stare out of faces burned coal black by the sun. There are places where there are veritable piles of bodies."

PRESIDENT AND FAMILY LOST FIVE HOURS IN AUTO.

Set on Road Leading to Nowhere
While Driving in Foothills of Green Mountains.

Winster, Vt., June 27.—President Wilson and members of his family, out for an afternoon automobile ride, became lost today in the foothills of the Green mountains, and for nearly five hours were riding through dense forests, up and down steep inclines, part of the time in a driving rain. The drive took the presidential party over roads seldom traveled by automobiles.

At one place Francis B. Sayre, the president's son-in-law, leaned out and spoke to a farmer standing beside the road.
"Where does this road go?" Mr. Sayre inquired.

"I've been living here all my life, and it never went anywhere," the man replied, while the president tried to preserve his gravity.

GERMAN POLICY AT SEA UPHELD

Capt. Persius Says People Demand Submarine War
Because of English Acts.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]
BERLIN, June 27.—The second on German submarine warfare is discussed today in Tagblatt for the first time by Capt. Persius, whose words may be regarded as highly significant because of his close touch with the masses of people. He declares without equivocation that a majority of Germans insist and demand that the submarine warfare, as heretofore waged, be continued without modification as long as Great Britain insists on its blockade of starvation.

Only a small section of the people," he writes, "favor any modification of the submarine policy, while a vast majority persists in demanding a continuation of the present policy as long as England continues its misuse of neutral flags and its practice of transforming merchant ships into warships. Germany certainly has no desire to endanger the lives or property of neutral nations, but we must be determined at all costs to prevent munitions from reaching our enemies."

"The effectiveness of submarines is weekly becoming greater, and it is probable that these craft will easily become the determining factor in the sea fighting. Nothing should be permitted to weaken the effect of this new weapon, which Germany possesses in greater perfection than any other nation."

WAR NATIONS NOW CAN CARE FOR OWN PEOPLE

Rockefeller Commission Reports Some Relief Must Continue, However,

New York, June 27.—The outstanding feature of the situation among noncom-batants in Europe today, as observed by the Rockefeller foundation's war relief commission, is that the more highly organized communities are themselves finding it possible to alleviate acute distress among their people.

This announcement was made in a report of the war relief commission issued by the Rockefeller foundation tonight.
The commission has completed a careful survey of conditions as they affect non-combatants in all the countries at war except Italy and Turkey, and a visit to these last named countries is planned at an early date.

Readjustment of Situation Made.

"At the outset of the war, and due to its sudden development," the commission's report says, "there was a severe dislocation of economic life throughout the world, not alone in belligerent countries.
A readjustment has now been effected and the populations have become measurably adapted to war conditions."

"This even countries like Belgium are now able to help themselves to a degree impossible six months ago, though Belgium is still wholly dependent on the commission for relief in Belgium for the importation of food supplies and would again be confronted by famine if importation were stopped."

"Suffering and want are still acute in Serbia, Russian Poland, and in parts of Greece. Serbia and Montenegro are still in the throes of typhus, and substantial economic and social recuperation is impossible at present."

"The summer weather conditions, the through-going economy, self-denial, and mutual co-operation of the people everywhere in Europe, as well as the approach of harvest time, have contributed temporarily toward an amelioration of general distress. But there are still numerous localities where need is urgent and relief must be provided for a considerable time to come."

Polish Situation in Hand.

Of its work in Poland the commission has to say:

"The German government agreed to furnish $500,000 a month for the purchase of food and to stop all requisitions in Poland as soon as the relief work began.
Efforts to obtain grain from other countries in Europe for shipment to Poland were, however, unsuccessful."

"That situation has now been taken care of, as the German government has recently advised the commission that having completed an inventory of the food supplies available at home, Germany found itself in a position to assume entire responsibility for the relief of that part of Poland under its control."

DECEIT OF DUMBA DENIED BY BRYAN

Statement Shows There Was Some Confusion on Lusitania Note.

LONG KEPT A SECRET.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]
Washington, D. C., June 27.—[Special.]
Former Secretary of State Bryan tonight issued a statement denying that he had given the Austro-Hungarian ambassador,
Dr. Dumba, the impression that the first Lusitania note was not to be taken seriously.

Reports that Ambassador Dumba had rooted from his talks with Mr. Bryan an erroneous impression of the meaning and force of the president's note have been current here since the situation arose that led up to Mr. Bryan's resignation. While some exaggerated reports have been published regarding this matter, the understanding that the Austro-Hungarian ambassador had derived an incorrect impression of the intent of the first note came from such a responsible quarter that it was generally credited.

Admits a Misunderstanding.

Mr. Bryan in his statement admits that the conversation he had with Ambassador Dumba was misinterpreted in Berlin, and that he again took up the matter with the ambassador. At his request, the ambassador signed a statement verifying
Mr. Bryan's understanding of the conversation that took place between them.
Mr. Bryan had previously told the president of what he said to the ambassador, and, according to his statement tonight,
the president at that time approved of it.

This statement by Mr. Bryan is the first public acknowledgment by any of the parties concerned that there was any misunderstanding with regard to Mr.
Bryan's talks with the Austro-Hungarian ambassador.

Bryan Kept Matter Secret.

While secretary of state, Mr. Bryan never divulged the fact that it had been necessary to get a statement from the ambassador certifying to the correctness of the former's understanding of their conversation on the issue between the United States and Germany.

Just what was said at the interview between the two is not publicly known here.

PREPARE SWISS MONASTERY FOR POSSIBLE USE OF POPE.

German and Austrian Papal Ministers in Republic Conduct Propaganda for Change of Residence.

GENEVA, Switzerland, June 27.—[Delayed.]—During the last few weeks the monastery at Einsiedeln, canton of Schwyz, has been carefully repaired and modernized to make it ready, it is stated, in the eventuality of the pope going there to reside temporarily.

The German and Austrian ministers to the Vatican, who now have headquarters at Lugano, Switzerland, are favoring by propaganda this change of residence for the pope.

Denies Pope Praised von Buelow.

ROME, June 27.—In reply to a report from Germany that Pope Benedict had sent a cordial letter to Prince von Buelow, praising his work during his diplomatic mission to Rome, the Corriere d'Italia says:

"Prince von Buelow, before leaving Rome, wrote to the pontiff, of whom he is a personal friend. Pope Benedict replied, expressing sentiments of courtesy and friendship, but making no political judgments or appreciations."

enty casualties in the garrison, a dispatch from the Mytilene correspondent of

ITALIAN TROOPS DRIVE FOE BACK ON ISONZO RIVER

Engineer Corps Succeeds in Stopping Floods Which Halted Progress in Austria.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]
ROME, June 27.—Along the Isonzo river the battle which began fifteen days ago is still raging. The Italian covering troops are in close contact with the Austrians, who have retreated under the protection of their fortresses at Tarvis, Tolmino, and Gorizia.

For some days the progress between Gradisca and Monfalcone has been seriously impeded on account of the vast floods in the valley caused by the enemy having dammed the canal branching off of the Isonzo near Sagrada. The Italian pontoon corps, though under fire the whole time, managed to construct another dike near the spot where the river empties itself into the canal, and the floods now are rapidly subsiding.

Gain Near Monte Croce.

An official statement issued tonight at the headquarters of the general staff follows:

"In the Monte Nero zone, where there has been fighting recently, we took 300 guns, 20,000 cartridges, and two bomb throwers, abandoned by the enemy."

Fleet to Become Active.

The government has issued a decree imposing restrictions on shipping in the Adriatic sea, and it is generally expected that important naval operations are to take place. These operations may entail an attack on Pola, the Austrian naval base on the Adriatic, or a heavy bombardment by warships of the Austrian positions between Monfalcone and Trieste, on the gulf of Trieste. The latter operation, if undertaken, would be in support of the land forces which are attempting to push forward along the gulf coast from Monfalcone.

RUSSIA SIGNS A CONTRACT FOR $83,000,000 FOR ARMS.

Canadian Steel Foundries Concern
Will Supply Immense Amount of Shells for War.

New York, June 27.—Wilson W. Butler, vice president of the Canadian Steel Foundries, Ltd., and the Canadian Car and Foundry company, who arrived here today from Liverpool on the steamship Philadelphia, declared that while abroad he closed a contract in Petrograd for $83,000,000 worth of artillery shells, which he asserted is one of the largest contracts ever granted by Russia for foreign manufacture.

While in England Mr. Butler conferred with the British committee, an advisory organization to the war department. He said that he objected to England's efforts to draw upon Canada and other British colonies for a large supply of skilled labor.

LAW ADVISERS TO AID WILSON

International Committee Is Urged for Use in Crisis
by S. M. Hastings.

PLAN IS A NEW ONE.

S. M. Hastings, president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, advocates a committee of international law advisers for the United States in a statement issued yesterday. He believes President Wilson would be relieved of much pressure if business and professional men would suggest a committee composed of such men as John Bassett Moore and former Senator Elihu Root.

With their knowledge and experience in international law and diplomacy, Mr.
Hastings is confident that by acting in conjunction with Secretary of State Lansing and similar committees representing the belligerent countries they might dispose of many details of international questions without the necessity of imposing this burden on the president.

Ex-Senator Root Named.

"The problems arising under international law in the present conflict in Europe are very intricate," Mr. Hastings said. "No doubt the president would be glad to have the aid of such authorities on the subject as former Senator Root and Elihu Root. In his position, however, he cannot ask for this aid. It occurs to me that the suggestion of such names as I have mentioned and the organization of such a committee might be of assistance."

"We must not be too technical in our demands upon a nation engaged in a war.
It is difficult to get the viewpoint of the belligerents, who are exerting every effort in trying to take care of their troubles."

Might Lead to Speedy Peace.

"I am permitted to make a suggestion that it would be the business of the diplomatic departments of the nations endeavoring to handle their intricate questions, why not have each nation at war select three of its ablest men and each neutral country select three of its best representatives, and let them handle the question involved in international law and the so-called violations of the same."

"I believe such a plan as suggested above if earnestly and conscientiously followed might lead to peace quicker than any other method. At least it would help relieve our president and the principals of the other nations of their great responsibilities."

WOULD PUNISH OFFICIALS OVER RIOTS IN MILAN

Government Places City Under Martial Law and Seeks Heads of Neglectful Men.

BY CAROLYN WILSON.
[War Correspondent of The Tribune.]
[Copyright: 1915: By The Chicago Tribune.]
MILAN, May 30.—The city of Milan is now under martial law, and the government is out for the heads of various responsible officials who allowed the riots to go on practically without interruption. The Count Badesoni has been put under arrest awaiting an investigation. Commander Ferrari has been put in ad quest in the place of the former commander, who, of all the crowd, was the only one exonerated. Gen. Savelli has succeeded as commander of the city in the place of Gen. Spingardi, formerly minister of war.

Although there was little put in the papers, the affair was really much worse than was at first imagined. There are plenty of people who hint at numerous deaths and savage murders by the violent crowds. And now that there has been time to investigate all the destruction, all the fires, it has been seen that the damage is immense.

Work of Mob.
The second morning after the worst of the display, I went around looking at some of the handwork, in such places as I could get by the guard of grizzled territorial watching in front.

I have never seen such complete, careful, painstaking work to my life. In one place there was absolutely not one scrap of woodwork left to prove what sort of a shop it had once been.

I went to an apartment which had belonged to Viennese girls, friends of an American journalist I met in Milan. We went up to see if there was any possibility of something being spared. The doors had been torn off their hinges, even the pane of glass was broken. Tables, chairs, wardrobes were broken into pieces no bigger than your hand—in the cases where they had not been absolutely destroyed by fire.

But the crowd in spite of its fury was systematic and careful. It would take one apartment like that, enter it, destroy it completely, perhaps make fires of the draperies and rugs in the middle of the stone floor, and guard the fire carefully so that they did not do any damage to any other resident in the house.

Crowd Follows Trio.
I've had two days of this quiet when yesterday afternoon I saw a tremendous crowd surging up to the hotel, evidently in pursuit of a charming woman accompanied by two boys, one in the uniform of the Italian navy, the other in that of the artillery.

She walked into the hotel composedly, the crowd following after and blocking the entrance, calling and yelling and shouting, the cries all so intermingled that I could not distinguish what it was the people said.

It is almost impossible to distinguish between a furiously angry Italian and an ecstatically enthusiastic one, as far as an extravaganza of gesture and loud cries go, and their burning eyes might illustrate either emotion.

So it was with great sympathy that I turned toward the woman who was facing them and said smiling:
"Did they take you for an Austrian?"
They followed me yesterday, too, knowing I was a stranger.

She stiffened a moment, then smiled gently, and said:
"No, they know me. I fancy madame does not understand what they are calling, because they are cheering me, or rather my son—pointing to him—who is going to the front as a simple soldier in the morning."

Cries Reveal Identity.
I bowed vaguely, for her words didn't elucidate the matter at all, and then I distinguished above the roar of the crowd the words:
"Duchessa d'Aosta! Viva Savoia! Viva la Francia! Viva il duca!"

And it came over me that this was the Duchess of Aosta, born Princess of Orleans, second lady of Italy and perhaps sometime queen, if anything should happen to the little heir apparent. And her son, perhaps one day to be a king, marching as a simple soldier!

During the last week the Piazza del Duomo has been the most remarkable place in the world. Imagine the setting: the wide open space, with its gorgeous, lacy spired church, white and aspires; its wonderful carvings, its gold statue of the Virgin over all; then on either side the arcades filled with people.

The police clear them away hastily, and in the little breathing space that ensues before the new mob collects, a band of sisters, all in gray, with white, dove-like headresses, is seen going to the cathedral to pray for the souls of French soldiers killed in combat.

D'AOSTA

Two men lost their lives while swimming during the last twenty-four hours. Both were victims of a sudden attack of cramps. Frits Demond of 207 Asbury avenue, Evanston, was drowned in the drainage canal near Kenilworth avenue, Rogers Park, and Fritz Zoch of 924 West Sixty-fourth street, went down in the Desplaines river near Willow Springs.

Demond, with several companions, was enjoying a swim in the canal, when his legs and arms became cramped. He shouted to his companions and they immediately went to his assistance. Before they could reach him, however, he sank, and no trace could be found of the body.

The Evanston police station was notified and Lieut. James Mersch of the fire department and Patrolman William Manning went to the scene with a pump. The Rogers Park police dragged the canal for more than six hours in a vain attempt to find the body. Demond was in the employ of Nicholas Meyers, proprietor of a greenhouse at 207 Asbury avenue, Evanston.

Fishing Trip Ends Fatally.
Zoch, accompanied by Edward Simon of Thirty-seventh street and Maplewood avenue, was "discovered" yesterday afternoon when "Skipper" A. M. Andrews laid the "Nancy Alice," a seventy foot yawl, on a sandbar, 300 feet off shore and a short distance south of Kenilworth beach. Mr. Andrews, who lives at 919 Judson avenue, Evanston, is connected with Andrews & Co., brokers, at 108 South La Salle street.

A half dozen guests and a crew of five were marooned on the bar for more than an hour, when Capt. Peter F. Jensen of the Evanston Coast Guard station, and his crew went to the rescue.

Mr. Andrews is a member of the Lincoln Park Yacht club. The yawl is a new one and escaped damage.

"Those seamen show up every now and then in unexpected places," said Capt. Jensen. "That one hit by the 'Nancy Alice,' may disappear tomorrow."

SALEON TRIP MAY BE FATAL.
Albert Williamson of La Grange, Ill., a carpenter, was injured, probably fatally, last night when he fell down a flight of stairs leading to a saloon at 233 South State street. He was taken to the county hospital, where physicians say he may die.

And, fifty feet away—less right over your very head, there are 6,000 people yelling themselves hoarse, shrieking for war and death, for conquest and slaughter, for monarchies, republics, revolutions—God knows what—but crying for everything except the peace, the calm of that chapel.

GIRLS TO BOOST POSTERETTES

Will Canvass Loop, Calling on Every Business Man in the City.

CAMPAIGN GAINS FAST.

Pretty girls are to begin today the work of enrolling boosters behind the Tribune's posterette campaign.

The details of the Tribune's plan to tell to the world the story of "Chicago Summer Resort," are to be laid before every business man and woman in the city. A number of men are also to aid in the work of enrolling, and it is planned first to visit every big office building in the loop.

Every one who has not yet telephoned his order for Tribune posterettes will thus be given an opportunity to join the army of boosters and provide himself with a supply of the artistic little posters that are to spread broadcast the fame of the city as a summering place.

The Actual Posterettes.
The young women will carry with them the actual posterettes, all of the twelve designs in the full six colors, so that every one will have a chance to see them in all their beauty.

Mayor Thompson has extended an invitation to the booster squad to visit all the offices in the city hall, and that will be one of the first places where they will appear. Peter Reinberg, president of the county board, has also expressed a desire to receive a visit from the squad, and an appointment has been made for one of the very prettiest of the girls to call on him. Members of the county board are also to be seen, as will be the aldermen.

Mrs. Ella Fiagg Young, superintendent of schools, has sent word that she is not to be overlooked, and a visit will be made either to her offices or to her apartment in the Hotel La Salle.

Realty Men Interested.
Plans are under way for enrolling the bankers of the city. The real estate men, as shown by a number of letters received, are especially interested. Special arrangements have been made to care for all telephone calls sent to Wabash 265, where an extra force of girls has been put on duty.

One of the features of the day was the discussion that has arisen among artists as to the most artistic and striking of the posterette series. A decision was most difficult, but all joined in declaring that the two designs prepared by Maude Martin Evers showed the real summer resort "atmosphere."

Democratic Chairman and Legislators to Visit Dunne in Interest of $135,000 Appropriation.

Duquoin, Ill., June 27.—The chairman of the Democratic central committee of forty southern Illinois counties and a party of state legislators representing these counties left for Springfield tonight to urge Gov. Dunne to sign the bill appropriating $135,000 for the Southern Illinois Normal school. It has been said that the governor intends to veto the bill.

"AFTER many toils I came to the head days on the bank of a river of feeble current, now flowing into the lake, but which occupies the course that formerly the waters of these great lakes took as they flowed southward to the Mississippi river.

This is the lowest point on the divide between the two great valleys of the St. Lawrence and the Mississippi. The boundless regions of the West must send their products to the East through this point. Everything invites to action. The typical man who will grow up here must be an enterprising man. This will be the gate of empire, this the seat of commerce."

"What can I do to make her stronger?"

Your physician has told you that it is simply one of the thousands of cases of "debility." You have tried certain "tonics" without avail, but you have not yet tried Sanatogen, the true food-tonic.

And Sanatogen may well prove her salvation, for remember that thousands of women who were weak and weary have derived new strength, a new joy of living, from its use.

Olive Schreiner, the famous writer, gratefully exclaims:
"Nothing that I have taken in years has given me such a sense of vigor as Sanatogen."

And Amelia E. Barr, the beloved novelist, refers to the "marvellous help" derived from using Sanatogen. This help of Sanatogen is not the false help of a mere stimulant but the constructive aid of a true food-tonic, which gives the exhausted system the natural elements for building up the blood, strengthening the nerves, improving digestion.

How well it performs this function, physicians in every land—21,000 of them have endorsed Sanatogen in writing—knew from actual observation. Their attitude is well summed up by the famous Berlin specialist, Professor Eulenberg, who writes:
"I am using Sanatogen more and more in cases of nervous troubles which have their origin in poverty of the blood and poor nutrition, and never had occasion to regret its use."

And we feel sure you will never regret using Sanatogen.
Sanatogen is sold by good druggists everywhere in 3 sizes, from $1.00 up.

GIBBONS FEARS POLITICAL DUST IN WOMAN VOTE

Cardinal's Letter Seeks to Make His Position Clear; Sees Harm in Suffrage.

Baltimore, Md., June 27.—[Special.]—Cardinal Gibbons, in the hope of settling some of the questions of his position on woman suffrage, has addressed an open letter to James R. Nugent, former senator of New York and a Democratic leader in New Jersey.

In the campaign now being waged in New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, and Massachusetts, where the question of woman suffrage will be voted on in the fall, many contrary and divergent statements have appeared, all supposedly reflecting the attitude of Cardinal Gibbons. It has not been an unusual sight to see the prelate's name used in one city as a proponent of "votes for women" and in another city as opposed to the question, and many newspapers also have quoted him erroneously in this manner.

The Cardinal's Letter.

The cardinal's letter to Mr. Nugent is as follows:

"I still hold the same views on woman suffrage, already so often expressed, that the ballot would drag woman from her domestic duties into the arena of politics and rob her of much of her charm, goodness, and true influence.

"She is indeed a princess, but her God-given rule should lie in domestic and gentle fields and ways. We all believe that she has been so successful in her work there that we fear any change by the carrying of her government into the political field."

Supplementing his letter to Mr. Nugent, Cardinal Gibbons further says:

"Equal rights do imply that both sexes should engage promiscuously in the same pursuits, but rather that each sex should discharge those duties which are adapted to its physical constitution and are sanctioned by the canons of society. To some among the gentler sex the words 'equal rights' have been, it is feared, synonymous with 'similar rights.'

"To debar women from certain pursuits is not to degrade her. To restrict her sale of action to the gentler avocations of life is not to fetter her aspirations after the higher and the better."

Her Sacred Influence.

"It is, on the contrary, to secure to her not equal rights so called, but those superlative rights which cannot fail to endow her with a sacred influence in her own proper sphere; for, as soon as woman trenches on the domain of man she must not be surprised to find that the reverence once accorded her has been in part or wholly withdrawn and that she is destined to be soiled by the dust of the political arena."

"The insistence on a right of participation in active political life is undoubtedly calculated to rob woman of all that is amiable and gentle, tender and attractive; to rob her of her innate grace of character and give her nothing in return but masculine boldness and effrontery. In advocates are habitually preaching about women's rights and prerogatives and have not a word to say about her duties and responsibilities."

Edison Declares for Suffrage.

New York, June 27.—[Special.]—Thomas A. Edison, the inventor, today declared unqualifiedly for the enfranchisement of women.

"Women represent the better part of the family and the better part of the community. Women are more moral than men, they are more honest than men. Their political influence in the community would be for good," said Mr. Edison. "I have always been in favor of giving the vote to women. It is their right."

He had not publicly advocated enfranchisement before.

EVELYN FEARS THAW REVENGE

Terror Brings Actress Wife to Verge of Nervous Breakdown.

Upper Chateaugay Lake, N. Y., June 27.—[Special.]—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, for whom state process servers have been vainly searching for over a fortnight, was found today at a secluded camp in the heart of the North woods. She is in a condition bordering upon a nervous breakdown, brought on by overwork and the fear that Harry K. Thaw, her husband, may be liberated as a result of the sanity proceedings now being held in New York.

Mrs. Thaw is firmly convinced as she has been since the second trial of Thaw for slaying Stanford White, that in the event her husband is given his freedom he will in some way seek vengeance upon her. Her terror is not feigned, it is real. As there had been some question as to the present attitude of Mrs. Thaw so far as her husband is concerned, she was asked if her position had changed since she testified at the habeas corpus proceedings at White Plains.

"Not in the slightest," the prompt reply was. "How could it change, when Thaw has not? But I want to make one thing clear: I do not believe he should necessarily be sent back to Matteawan. I think he should be sent to a private sanatorium, where he might continue to mend mentally."

"Then you think he has improved mentally?"

"I do," Mrs. Thaw replied, after the slightest hesitation. "But I consider him still dangerous. My idea is that, while there has been improvement due to strict discipline, he should be held in restraint until it could be positively known that he will harm neither me nor any one else."

With regard to testifying in New York, Mrs. Thaw said she would be willing to take the stand, if called, but hoped that she would not be required, as she was not nervously fit to withstand the ordeal.

"SPITE WINDOW" DRAWS IRE OF FLAT DWELLERS

Landlord Refuses to Cancel Lease and Tenant Uses Old Rent Signs.

When tenants in the Belmont apartment at 423 Belmont avenue arrive in the vicinity of their home these days they usually call the attention of accompanying guests to the handsome facade across the way.

If they succeed in keeping the eyes of guests off the front window of a certain first floor apartment in Belmont, they are comparatively happy.

That particular window is referred to by William L. Pattison, the landlord, as a "spite window." It is in the apartment of James C. Maloney, a cash register salesman, who, it is set forth, would prefer to live somewhere else, but is anchored by a two year lease.

Release Refused by Owner.

Maloney moved into the apartment last October. A month later, according to Pattison, he complained the rooms were too dark and asked to be released from his lease. The landlord refused.

Up to that time there had been curtains in the window and an attractive interior in the background. It was just like the windows that look out on the street from the apartments of Carter Harrison Jr., of Paul Hartlett, the artist husband of Carter Harrison Sr.'s niece, of Ferdinand C. Bunte, the wealthy candy manufacturer; of Mrs. Leonora Z. Meder, former head of the municipal department of public welfare; and of other tenants, of whom Pattison is proud.

But after the landlord delivered his ultimatum in re the lease the curtains disappeared. "For Rent" cards which gave evidence of much use in the past made their appearance. Books, magazines, old newspapers, dilapidated pasteboard boxes and other odds and ends were piled on the window sill. And every day the pile has been growing higher.

Flat "Immaculate" Inside.

An adventurous reporter who called on Maloney yesterday got a peep at the rest of the interior of his apartment. It presented none of the picturesque disorder of the window, but was immaculate and "handsomely furnished," as they say in the "rooms for rent" advertisements.

"Spite nothing," said Mr. Maloney, indignantly. "I like the window the way it is. If other people don't like it, I can't help it. See Mr. Pattison."

"Certainly it's spite," said the landlord when the reporter got around to him. "I found out he'd done the same thing before and refused to cancel the lease."

BURTON MAY RUN FOR PRESIDENCY

Boom of Former Senator Will Be Started in Cleveland Soon.

WILLIS AN OPPONENT.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., June 27.—[Special.]—The presidential candidacy of former United States Senator Theodore E. Burton of Ohio will be formally launched at a banquet to be given in his honor by the John May club of Cleveland on Mr. Burton's return to that city next week.

The former senator is spending a week in Washington, resting up from his long trip through South America. Thus far he has declined to say whether he will or will not be a candidate.

By virtue of the Ohio primary law it is doubtful that either Burton or Willis will obtain the full delegation from that state, as the delegates are elected from congressional districts. The Burton leaders feel confident they will emerge with a great majority of the delegates, however.

CROWD AT BANK OF ITALY.

Two hundred depositors of the State Bank of Italy, which is to quit business because of the European war, were in line at the door of the bank when it opened yesterday morning. Policemen and two Italian detectives were at the bank to keep order. The rush lasted for an hour. After 10 o'clock only a few depositors drew out their savings. Attorney E. Eagle Brown, counsel for the First National bank and representative of the six banks which have gone to the aid of the State Bank of Italy, said he believed the majority of the depositors will wait until July 1 before drawing their savings in order to receive the interest.

JUST MORE JOBS.

A veto of the state censorship bill passed by the legislature will save the state money for salaries better not paid and the moving picture world from unnecessary loss and interference. The need for state censorship does not appear. The national board of censors is strict. In Chicago we have a drastic regulation. Any town or city can protect itself if it feels the need of protection. A state board would mean just so many new jobs, new drains on the state treasury. A fifth wheel on a wagon would be useful compared to a state board of censors.

MODERNIZING A LAW.

Before the civil war there unquestionably was some purpose in the law prohibiting corporations from owning land in Illinois. Allens, operating through an organization, threatened to purchase vast agricultural tracts, and public policy demanded protection. But with the increase in population and land values the law now stands in the way of further improvement, especially in the cities, where great individual fortunes are necessary to own the land upon which the great skyscrapers are built.

By certain well known hocus-pocus, astute legal minds have been able to arrange for the holding of land by a corporation in a clumsy way. For instance, we find a safety deposit company owning an extremely valuable corner in the loop district and operating a fifteen story building with the most modern equipment in safety deposit vaults imaginable. For fear some one might insist upon overcrowding the facilities, due foresight has been exercised in locating the office and the sign well in the rear. No one seems the worse off because of the subterfuge except the law.

The Hicks bill, now awaiting Gov. Dunne's signature, is designed to clear the way for correction and legitimate development, without opening up flagrant abuses. Corporations are given the right to own land not to exceed 80,000 square feet, and to erect and operate a single building thereon. The building must cost at least half the value of the land and be erected within five years after the incorporation. It is expressly provided that stock in such a building corporation cannot be held by any other corporation, and no two or more building corporations can consolidate.

The present law is being evaded, and so is ineffective. The Hicks bill will at least give us what seems a fairer law under modern conditions by making possible the full development of valuable city land. It should be noted that it does not remove any of the restrictions against corporations owning farm lands.

WHEN WAR IS ON.

Deputy Renaud, speaking in behalf of the Socialists, said the military mobilization had been "later." He assigned the military of war for its failure to foresee the need of munitions, which he attributed to the "bureaucratic system," and expressed the hope that the military would be able to produce the munitions which they controlled the recruiting of their employees—Cable from Paris.

Deputy Renaud probably is one of the gentlemen who fought every army measure in times of peace and we think we have his like in congress, though they are not labeled Socialists. If we should become involved in war and began to pay the price of our unredness congress would disclose a good many patriots exhorting the military and naval authorities for the nation's misfortune, although they are themselves chiefly to blame.

A SKYSCRAPER POSTOFFICE.

Probably the "upstairs" kind of postoffice is not all wrong after all. The idea suggests, at any rate, that the first consideration will be service, efficiency, and plan, without so much imperial grandeur and insanitary architecture.

When the present postoffice was under consideration we were all so excited about the stately columns, rotundas, and domes that the edifice was all but completed before some astute citizen discovered that some way would have to be provided for getting the mail out of the building. The suggestion of a skyscraper indicates perhaps that we are now thinking more about the work that has to be done in the building and the workers who must be housed than about friezes. If a skyscraper is the cheapest and best solution of the Chicago mail problem, then let us have a skyscraper postoffice.

The skyscraper, besides sounding serviceable and businesslike, is an entirely new type of government building. In the past we have been devoted to the heavy, ornate styles despite our democratic tenets. Perhaps the way is opened for more appropriate simplicity, with a saving in money and without any loss in real beauty.

OUR MILLION MEN.

A militant pacifist is a person who is willing to defend himself but unwilling to learn how. It—to avoid discrimination as to sex and to indicate the neuter quality of the mind—is an inflated egotism headed in a most dangerous direction. For the pacifist who maintains that under no conditions could fighting be thought of may not meet your ideas of proper self-respect, but he does square with consistency. It is the militant pacifist who is a menacing factor.

The "million armed men by sundown" is the creation of this inflated egotism. We agree that shortly after a call for volunteers there would be an enlistment approximating if not exceeding this number. Some time later the men might be armed. Still later they might know how to handle a military rifle without endangering their own lives. Later still they would be obliged to face a task for which they would be unprepared.

This possibility invites the sympathy of all citizens who do not believe in making a martyrdom out of patriotism and willingness to make a sacrifice. Has any militant pacifist thought of what would happen to these volunteers whom the nation refused to train while there was time and upon whose inexperience it threw this tremendous task when there was no time to train them?

They are worth a thought, these willing citizens who would take up the work of protecting the nation and who would be murdered because the nation never has thought it worth while to take up the work of protecting them.

MAKING THE STATES HARMONIOUS.

Gov. Dunne has signed a bill which, becoming a law, will require that persons applying for a license to marry in Illinois shall, if they be residents of another state, be eligible for license in that state. This law is wiser and more consequential than its seeming. Illinois, like other states, does not move rapidly toward the scheme of uniformity of state laws on subjects of general concern, but makes its contributions from time to time, and this is one of them.

The value of the states in the development of American national life may be as much underestimated now in the careless thought of the nation as it once was overestimated in the superheated thought of the nation. As they afford shelter for grotesque disparities and inequalities, for distinctions which confuse if they do not impair the rights of the citizen as a citizen of the nation, they weaken themselves and strengthen the opinion that they should be mere political divisions of administration. If it be possible for a marriage to have legality in one state and not in another, the logic of the state as a law making unit is questioned. Uniformity of law in some essentials of life must control throughout the union if we are to preserve unity.

One method of getting uniformity is to recognize the centralization of authority and to iron the states out flat under the federal law making and law administering body. This would be done at a sacrifice of much that is valuable to Americans and cherished by them.

American life will be more copious and more vitalized for the development of sectional individualities. The states have expressed them, from New England to the Pacific coast, from Illinois to Florida. The state individuality should have the privilege of expression in law of the character and habit of life.

This will continue as a wholesome, interesting, colorful differentiation of American types unless the development of the nation be in the direction of an overpowering federalization which will get wholly away from the soil and try to smooth everything out on a dead level.

One impulse toward such centralization is found in the incompatibility of various state laws which lead to do with the general interests of the nation. Confusion of this sort makes men impatient with the state governments which create it. Another impulse undoubtedly is given by the occasional interference of states in the foreign affairs of the nation—such, for instance, as that of California by its laws making an issue for the nation with Japan.

As absurdities in state government are removed the state is strengthened. The effort to obtain uniformity where uniformity is needed is organized, and, although the results obtained come slowly, they come. Whenever there is a contribution in that direction it is worth noting, and encouragement of the effort is valuable. Plans are under way to assemble in Chicago a congress of legislative bodies to consider the subject, even as the congress of governors has considered it. One preventive of the development of a centralized bureaucratic government lies in correcting the apparent faults in state governments and making the states harmonious rather than conflicting components of the nation.

A GREAT DEAL OF DISAPPOINTMENT.

No one as yet has successfully accused Wall street of passing up any opportunity that might offer itself for picking up a bit of change, in or out of war. But it seems that the street understands money better, perhaps than the perverse human nature of the unprofessional Europe that was holding, and, alas, is still holding, something more than $500,000,000 worth of American securities. If the predictions had held water our astute men of finance stood by ready to absorb a few plump bargains and in that and other ways to assist the war ridden foreigners in the liquidation of their stocks and bonds.

Unfortunately there has been an astonishingly small demand. Belgians, English, French, and the Germans have been stubborn about separating themselves from American dividends, which have been coming pretty regularly despite depression. In the first nine months of the "dumpling" that was going to bend our exchanges double and force our men to buy back securities at half price has amounted to about $500,000,000 of a $6,000,000,000 total—just enough to tantalize a man who has dreamed big dreams. The French, it seems, are particularly fond of our railroad bonds. Instead of selling them to get war money they propose to salt them down as collateral behind a loan. All that has been said about the cold and calculating nature of capital is proved, it seems. America can go ahead and use part of its enormous surplus for new railway and industrial development. Wall street must sulk over crumbs after dressing up for a Belshazzar feast.

THE JOYS OF MOTORING.

A young man by the name of Verbeck, who rides a motorcycle, was passing along the road when he met an automobile driver who was in distress. The motorcycle man stopped, and when he saw a hand saw freely of his time. He was unsuccessful, however, and it was decided to have the motorcycle tow the auto into Prospect. More complications presented themselves, as neither the auto driver nor the motorcycle rider had a rope to tie the two machines together. The automobile man solved this problem by taking off his pants and using them for a tow rope. The owner of the auto rode in the bus wagon into town, and as a result of the darkness it was not noticed that he was a pair of pants. The motorcycleist towed the machine to the residence of the driver by way of back streets, and he was not noticed. The operator used as a tow rope were not dissatisfied by the operation.

THE traction company is to try a "skip stop" plan on the Broadway and Clark surface lines, eliminating about fifty possible stops. Mr. Busby got the idea from the excellent time made by the Route No. 1 cars, which stopped only to let off passengers.

BREAKFAST SERIAL.

(Prepared by Ursus.)

YOUR very best attention, little dears, and Papa will tell you about the First Spoon, which was invented and manufactured by Patrick O'Harrahan, who lived to a ripe old age and died in the County Cork.

At this time all soups were thin soups, made with much pride in compounding, and to be found on all tables. It was the custom to dip hard, black bread in the soup, and eat when the bread was soaked by the dipping. Others of voracious appetite were known to drink the soup from the container in a manner likened to that of Uncle Sam, who pours coffee into the saucer to cool, afterward drinking it from the saucer. All of which is a bas and now told you in order that local color may be retained, giving sufficient warning that this practice should not be emulated.

O'Harrahan one day had gone to his dinner carrying a piece of tin which he absent-mindedly twisted into the shape of a spoon. Noticing the peculiar shape, he dipped it into his soup, giving occasion for much laughter, especially when he whistled in the act of supping. He set to work and shaped a better spoon, inserting a regular whistle. His spoons sold rapidly and he gained much money thereby. At 6 p. m. every other noise in the community was drowned by the chorus of spoon whistles; but this ceased to be enjoyable three times a day and O'Harrahan began making spoons without whistles, and they, little dears, are the same models we are using to this day.

It were well to remind you, children, that the dog should be fed away from the dining room.

"GRANT entered the race with full tanks of water and gas. His mechanic carried four oranges, a bottle of drinking water, and four hard boiled eggs, shelled."

We are advised by Jawn Kelly that not all of the eggs were shelled. This is a matter of the utmost importance, and should be investigated.

Prophecy.

(From "The Private Papers of Henry Ryecroft.")

I hate and fear "science" because of my conviction that, for long to come, if not forever, it will be the remorseless enemy of mankind. I see it destroying all simplicity, and gentleness of life, all the beauty of the world; I see it restoring barbarism under a mask of civilization; I see it darkening men's minds and hardening their hearts; I see it bringing a time of vast conflicts, which will pale into insignificance "the thousand wars of old," and as likely as not, will whelm all the laborious advances of mankind in blood drenched chaos.

TRACHOMA. A WHILE ago somebody became suspicious that there was trachoma among the school children of Tuscaloosa, Ala. The attention of the public health service was called to the situation and it sent Dr. Horning there to investigate. He examined the school population of Tuscaloosa, 1,122 pupils, of every station in life, and in addition 497 students in rural schools in the neighboring country.

He found that one child out of about every twenty positively had trachoma, and in addition, there were suspicious cases of trachoma in one out of about every sixteen. If these be counted as cases it means that in Tuscaloosa one school child out of every nine has trachoma.

Neglected trachoma is a serious disease. In the first place it is catching. It is spread by towels, wash basins, handkerchiefs, fingers. Unlike pink eye, it does not tend to get well. On the contrary, it tends to get slowly worse and in time to impair the sight seriously.

It passes through a stage wherein there are granular lids and a little mattering of the eyes. The eyelids light hurts the eyes; the sight is slightly impaired, and headaches are frequent. It finally enters the cicatrizing stage. In this stage the lids are drawn in, or, out, or down. They are persistently red and sore. The eyelids are very much impaired. The poor vision may result in persistent headaches and other forms of nervous disturbance. In this late stage the disease is not thought to be contagious.

However, before either of these stages is reached there is a stage on which I want to center attention. Get it clear in your mind, even if you must forget the other stages. The eyelids are opened more than half as far as normal. The eyelids look out through a narrow fissure. In most cases the lids are stuck together in the morning and there is a little matter in the inner corner.

A little mucouslike secretion is sometimes found in the corner of the eyes during the day. Light is a little unpleasant. These signs may not mean anything more than pink eye; or, if they persist it up, may not mean anything except eye strain, need for glasses. The majority of the children in Tuscaloosa found to have trachoma did not think their eyes were wrong in any way. In the case of some of the parents of thought there was some trouble with the eyes and if it did not get well shortly they would have glasses for their children.

These symptoms do not necessarily mean trachoma. They indicate that suspicion of trachoma is justified. When an eye man sees these cases he turns the lids out.

If trachoma is present he will find small

SNAKE BITE TREATMENT. J. N. U. writes: "Can you tell us what to do in case of rattlesnake bite before a doctor can arrive?"

REPLY. If the bite is on a limb tie it off from the general circulation with a handkerchief. Use a sharp knife to cut the wound and make it bleed freely. Sometimes it is advisable to cut the limb at least an inch above the wound around the limb. Rub toward the wound with the thumb the poison into the spaces from which the coating blood will wash it to the outside. If permanent loss of blood is at hand throw some cold water and get the wound clean. Never mind how much is added to the wound. Do not drink whisky. It is not a cure for snake bite. It is in no sense an antidote. Very few snake bite kills.

Destiny, and was thereafter used at the coronation of the kings of Scotland at the coronation of James VI. and I. in 1603. It was carried off to London in 1603 by King Edward I. of England, since which every British sovereign from the time of Edward I. to King George V. has been crowned.

The fact that the stone should be of the same material as the rocks of the island of Iona clearly indicates the fallacy of the popular legend according to which it was brought originally from the Holy Land, after serving there as the pillow to Jacob when he slept and saw in his dream angels ascending and descending a ladder that reached to heaven, and that it was afterward used on the sacred Hill of Tara, in Ireland, throughout many centuries, for the coronation of the Irish kings, before being carried off by St. Columba to Scotland.

The present duke belongs to so illustrious a form of Anglicanism that he is regarded by the members of his family as on the very brink of conversion to Roman Catholicism; and in this connection it may be remembered that his father, the late Duke of Devonshire, was a Roman Catholic, and his uncle, John, ninth and last Duke of Argyll, in their respective lineages was a convert to the Church of Rome.

It was not only before his becoming a convert to the Church of Rome, but also before his marriage with the late John Lawrence of New York, whose 12 year old boy is being brought up as a Roman Catholic. Telling him that he would be a Catholic, formerly attached to the British embassy at Washington, and now at the front in France, the estate estates would pass to the Roman Catholic branch of the family—namely, the Campbells of Lochan.

It must be admitted that from an artistic point of view the trustees of the Presbyterian church of Scotland have not made good use of the gift made to them by the eighth Duke of Devonshire. They have shocked all those possessed of any sense of art or of reverence for the historical past by their vandalistic restoration of the glorious old ruin of the cathedral of Iona.

It had not only been reerected but also fitted with Neo-Gothic brass work, wood work, and other twentieth century furnishings, which offend the eye not only by their aggressively modern phlegmatism but also by their glaring incongruity. To the trustees should have been desired to use the old sanctuary of what was once the Gaelic counterpart of England's Canterbury cathedral and Westminster abbey is comprehensible. But it seems incredible how they could have had so little sense of propriety as to convert it into what looks like a brand new Presbyterian church, utterly out of place among its wonderful environment.

It is probable that Iona was already a red, for hundreds of years previously, to the rites of the Druids. For its ancient Gaelic name was Innis Nod Drunneach (isle of the Druids). St. Columba was confirmed in the possession of the island by its then owner, King, of the northern Scots.

King Adrian, his successor and cousin, came to Iona to be crowned by St. Columba. The stone on which he sat for the occasion is the celebrated Stone of Scone.

Lord Valentia is a soldier by profession; during the late war he commanded the crack Tenth Hussar regiment, of which King Edward was then colonel in chief, and being of rather swarthy complexion was dubbed "Snowball" by his comrades, a sobriquet which has stuck to him ever since. He is still in mourning for his eldest son and heir, Capt. the Hon. Arthur Ansell, of the 11th regiment, the Tenth Hussars, who was killed in action in France in November last.

rounded red elevations mostly just inside the margin of the lower lid. There may be small solid red spots in the same location on the upper lid. The lids may be slightly thickened. The eyeball may be involved. A little redness of the inner portion of the eyeball is almost constant to be found. There may be a little matted under the lids. Trachoma in this stage is actively contagious.

This is the combination that makes it necessary for fathers and mothers to know about trachoma. It is not enough that the physicians know about it, an actively contagious disease, causing very little annoyance and yet inevitably bound to injure the eyes seriously.

Conditions like those found in Tuscaloosa have been found in so many places in all sections of the United States that no town is justified in thinking trachoma of no importance to its people.

FLYLESS HAVANA. O. R. M. writes: "Cannot you print what was done in Havana by the United States government to make it a flyless city and a cleaner one than any in the states?"

REPLY. I have the method. It is available for any health officer or other city official who takes the Havana officials for his model. Not all of it can be given in this space, but certain essentials can be referred to.

The first is that the city is thoroughly cleaned every night by the authorities. There is daily garbage removal service. The city removes the stable manure every night. After the refuse removal has been completed, before that and breakfast time the streets are swept and washed. The daily removal of stable manure and garbage is the largest factor in the city's wonderful freedom from flies.

It has a mosquito brigade. Accumulations of water are drained. Pools and puddles that cannot be drained are kept clean. The drilling brigade goes into the field almost immediately following each rain.

SNAKE BITE TREATMENT. J. N. U. writes: "Can you tell us what to do in case of rattlesnake bite before a doctor can arrive?"

REPLY. If the bite is on a limb tie it off from the general circulation with a handkerchief. Use a sharp knife to cut the wound and make it bleed freely. Sometimes it is advisable to cut the limb at least an inch above the wound around the limb. Rub toward the wound with the thumb the poison into the spaces from which the coating blood will wash it to the outside. If permanent loss of blood is at hand throw some cold water and get the wound clean. Never mind how much is added to the wound. Do not drink whisky. It is not a cure for snake bite. It is in no sense an antidote. Very few snake bite kills.

BOOK ON MARRIAGE. S. E. F. writes: "Kindly publish the names of a few appropriate books on the laws of marriage by which a young man about to be married should be guided."

REPLY. Get "Facts for the Married," by Dr. W. L. Howard, published by Clode.

CAN INSURE YOUR INTEREST IN PROPERTY.

Chicago, June 23.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—My mother died in New York about forty years ago, leaving a house and lot. According to the law at that time the husband was entitled to the use of this property for life and then upon his death I would inherit the same, being the only other heir. How should this property be insured to protect me in case of a fire? So far my father has kept the house insured and has paid the premium but in case of fire what would be done with the insurance money? A. L.

You are entitled to insure your interest in the premises. Unless the policy which your father had secured is payable to you, the money collected thereon would go to your father. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

RELATIVE TO RAISING OF RENT.

Chicago, June 23.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Where a tenant has no lease can a landlord raise the rent any time he sees fit? A. L.

Campaign by Holding Educational Meeting.

The success of THE TRIBUNE's anti-fly campaign in Chicago, during which 380,000 people attended educational lectures at 1,785 meetings, has led a score of other cities to follow Chicago in an effort to make their communities "fly-free." Charles M. Carroll of the agricultural extension department of the International Harvester company announced yesterday that requests for lecture equipment for fighting the fly have been made from Detroit, Mich.; Denver, Colo.; Toledo, O.; and Elgin, Ill., in addition to smaller places. In Chicago the harvester company has evidence that the campaign is continuing through requests for a further loss of twenty fly charts, the use of which was donated by the company.

"Correspondence indicates that boards of health, chambers of commerce, and welfare organizations throughout the country are waking up to the fact that efficiency is acquired through good health and that the fly is an enemy of health and consequently an enemy of efficiency," said Mr. Carroll. "It is incongruous that far more money is expended today for the safeguarding of the health of live stock than for the safeguarding of the health of human beings. Millions are spent on the curbing of hog cholera and the prevention of hoof and mouth disease; public veterinarians are zealous in the handling of animal diseases, while comparative apathy exists in reference to typhoid fever and other human ills."

FIREMEN DISPERSE MOB BENT ON STORMING JAIL.

Crowd Resorts Arrest of Man at Shelbyville, Ind., and Near-Riot Results.

Shelbyville, Ind., June 22.—(Special.)—The fire department at midnight last night dispersed a mob threatening the night police force of four men. The police were in the jail, having gone there to look Reuben Brown in for fighting.

Brown resisted Patrolmen Mark and Lemmon, knocking both down, but later they got handcuffs on Brown and, backed up by the other two officers, landed him in jail in spite of the threats of more than 100 men, who demanded Brown's release.

At the jail the mob grew to 300, and they were threatening to storm the jail, demanding that Mark be hanged. At this point the fire department was called, the officers slipped away from the jail, and after that the crowd was easily dispersed. The police say they will file a number of charges.

Time, Now; Place, Chicago; Kill 'Em.

MOSQUITO fighters! Now is the time to off standing water, put a tight cover on the rain barrel, and cut away the underbrush and weeds that may furnish a hiding place to the biter.

Prompt action now will prevent another crop of mosquitoes from maturing, even though the first crop now is getting its victims sorry that they didn't act back in April when they could have prevented all the trouble.

The lull, if not the cessation of the virtually continuous rains, affords the mosquito exterminator an opportunity to discover low spots which fill with water in wet seasons, and to drain them. Draining is the only permanent cure of mosquitoes. Oiling must be kept up once a week at this time of the year to be effective.

Out in Maywood boy scouts have marked trees with lime to designate the mosquito zone along the Des Plaines river, and are oiling mosquitoes. While you are reminded of the need for action by nighty bites, mix crude oil and kerosene half and half and put a film of oil on the wet places close to your residence.

TAKES MORPHINE WHEN DESPONDENT; MAY LIVE.

Switchman Denies He Had Quarrel with Wife, Who Attempted Suicide.

Mrs. Nora Willis attempted suicide in her home at 2948 South Fifth avenue yesterday by swallowing eight morphine tablets. She left a note of farewell addressed to her brother, Walter Burke of Tietzfeld, Cal., but the letter probably will not be mailed.

The note, held to await eventualities, runs as follows:

Dear Brothers and Sisters: I am going to die. Send for little Johnny. He has no one to take care of him—for God's sake. Write to mother.

After a stomach pump had been used on her in Wesley hospital, physicians said she had an excellent chance for recovery. According to Dr. Alfred T. Wendt, the ambulance physician who attended her, Mrs. Willis said she had quarreled with her husband, Abraham M. Willis, a switchman, denied there had been any trouble.

Thief Takes Miss Lamar Sheridan's
Valise Before She Boards
Train.

Miss Lamar Sheridan, Northwestern, 15, is on a San Francisco bound train, baggageless. The valise, which contains the finery she intended to wear at the exposition is somewhere in Chicago, probably in the hands of a disappointed thief. The valise disappeared while Miss Sheridan, her mother, and her father—the Rev. Dr. Wilbur F. Sheridan, general secretary of the Epworth league of the Methodist Episcopal church—were on their way from a downtown hotel to the railroad station. The Sheridans missed their train, but found no trace of the missing bag.

Mid-Season Clearance of Wash Goods Remnants

FIFTEEN THOUSAND yards of imported and domestic wash goods are involved and every yard is priced to insure its disposal immediately.

There are lengths suitable for every purpose and included are some of the finest wash fabrics we have displayed this season.

Tissue Gingham, Imported Ratine, Chiffon Lisse Voiles, 4-inch Printed Voiles, Fancy Suitings, Novelty Silk-Mixed Crepes, Corded Suitings, Ratine Crepes, Printed Voiles, 36-inch Crash Linens, Embroidered Novelties, Silk-Mixed Crepes, Fancy Crepe Voiles, Printed Seed Voiles, Checked Voiles.

This entire accumulation in lengths suitable for every purpose has been divided into just three assortments, marked without reference to former prices, at

15c, 20c and 25c Yard

Second Floor, North Room.

Women's Frocks of Embroidered Marquisette at $22.50

With such a frock in her vacation trunk, comes a happy sense of security to any woman.

For at a glance she will see they are dainty and fine enough for any evening dancing party and as charming for the many afternoon affairs of summer.

Of white cotton marquisette, with a refreshing bit of color in the form of big embroidered dots, rose, old blue, or black, plentifully besprinkled over skirt and bodice—these frocks bring a very novel variation of the becoming bolero-mode of summer.

And as attractive as they are in style—just so remarkably are they priced at $22.50.

Fourth Floor, North Room.

Unusually Good Values in Lace Flouncings

These are recently purchased and specially purchased assortments—and consequently these lower-than-usual prices can be quoted on very new laces and embroideries.

New embroidered net flouncings, embroidered on white net in pretty color combinations in several different designs.

The 18-inch Width at 75c Yard
The 27-inch Width at $1.25 Yard

22-Inch Embroidered Net Flouncings at 75c Yard
These come in white only, but in many different designs, all very handsomely embroidered. Priced at 75c yard.

Many Short Lengths at Lowered Prices

We have gathered all our short lengths and remnants of many different kinds of laces, allover, and flouncings, pricing them very low to sell them immediately—

At 25c, 50c and 95c Yard

First Floor, North Room.

New White Batiste Blouses at $3.95

Nothing could be more delightfully welcome than are these immaculately white blouses that come with their message of tucking as trimming.

As to the White Batiste Blouse at the Left—

It crosses its tucking, separates it with embroidered medallions of fine organdie, and then, for the sake of summer, comfortably shortens its sleeves. Specially priced at $3.95.

As to the White Batiste Blouse at the Right—

It approves doubly of tucking, some very fine, some a bit broader, and favors as strongly the long sleeve which it emphasizes by bracelet bands of black ribbon. Specially priced at $3.95.

Fourth Floor, North Room.

White Cotton Batiste, 30c Yd.

A very interesting value is offered by the pricing on this 45-inch white cotton batiste.

It is a dainty, soft-finished fabric, light in weight and particularly desirable for summer blouses, frocks and fine lingerie. Very special at 30c yard.

Marked for a Clearing—Broken Line of Fine
White French Piques at 50c Yard

These are offered in an assortment of figured and striped effects—ideal for the making of summer skirts and suits. Remarkable values at 50c yard.

Second Floor, North Room.

PRACTICE RULES OF TRADE BODY WILL BE FOUGHT

Industrial Attorney Tells of Objections to Code Adopted by Federal Bureau.

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)

Washington, D. C., June 27.—[Special.]—The rules of practice just adopted by the federal trade commission will be fought through the United States supreme court, it was said here today by a foremost industrial attorney.

This attorney, who has a number of clients with matters pending before the trade commission, said the rules put business men "up in the air" and that before the commission opens a public hearing on any complaint it finds the party complained against guilty of a violation of the law. The rules do not include provision for a public record and a final disposition in all cases brought before the commission.

Sees Secret Investigations. "It is my opinion that the workings of the commission were intended to be accompanied by the fullest publicity. Instead of that, the commission, according to its rules, intends to pursue secret investigations of all complaints. Not even the parties complained against, much less the public, will know the results of those investigations, unless the commission changes its rules or finds the parties guilty, in which case it will hold public hearings to see whether the crimes affect the public interest or not.

"To my mind, the commission should adopt a rule calling for an opinion on all matters which come before it, whether the opinion is one dismissing a complaint or whether it is one granting relief as asked for. The trade commission might well have followed the course of the interstate commerce commission in this matter.

Opinions in All Cases. "You cannot find anything in the commerce act giving or denying authority to the commission to file opinions on complaints which it rejects. But the commission files opinions in all cases, and the fact that it does so in all complaints which are approved and where relief is granted."

It developed today that the trade commission, before adopting its rules, submitted them to a number of attorneys for an opinion. One provision which was left out, as the rules were finally adopted, held that concerns or individuals seeking immunity must file requests for it on their first appearance in a case. It was pointed out today that this would have been a bold assumption of authority on the part of the commission, for which there was no legal basis. In the first place, cases which come before the commission are not crimes. They are merely offenses against business ethics, and in the second place, all of them are subject to review in the courts.

Sees Haven to Business. "If the commission does not start right out by disposing of all matters with a degree of finality which cannot be questioned it will work a havoc in the business world yet unparalleled. If the commission does file an opinion in all cases, business men will know their status practically at all times."

Much criticism is being heard concerning the intention of the commission to carry on informal or secret investigations before making complaints a matter of record.

Members of the commission are firm in the belief that the informal investigation will serve to hasten the work of the body, as it will permit them to dispose of any number of groundless complaints with much greater speed than if they were made matters for formal investigation.

BRITAIN FRETS OVER U. S. DEBTS

Private Credit Means Worry for American Bankers Also.

(BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.) LONDON, June 27.—While the new war loan presents every prospect of being a great national success, the effect of the announcement up to now has been to reduce the government's resources for the sale of treasury bills, which fell away last week to practically nothing.

Subscriptions went into the new loan, with the result that as payments on the loan's subscriptions have not yet been received, the government had to make its payments last week out of the balance on hand, which in consequence fell over $5,000,000 to $4,000,000.

This loss by the government was almost balanced by the open market gain, the latter having paid off $15,000,000 of indebtedness to the Bank of England and increased deposits by $40,000,000.

American Position Hardly Affected. The American position, however, has hardly been affected by the new loan. In the last week $18,573,000 in gold has been taken out of the London market by American, which is the largest amount taken in severe weeks.

The result of the gold movements was the loss by the Bank of England of $12,000,000, reducing the stock to $270,000,000. Gold is expected from Paris to relieve the situation, and the sharp rise in the exchange on Friday to 25 francs, 60 centimes may bring French gold to London at an early date. But a close working agreement between the French and English financial departments is quite likely to upset tradition, and the results of the Rothschild-Morgan loan may be awaited before there is any considerable flow of gold from Paris to London.

Big U. S. Loan Was Planned. It was hoped that the new loan would ease the American situation and the proposition was urged on the government by influential bankers to issue a $200,000,000 loan in America, free from the British income tax, but the government did not accept the idea, and now the question of whether the new loan can be used as collateral for private credit in America is purely one for American bankers to decide.

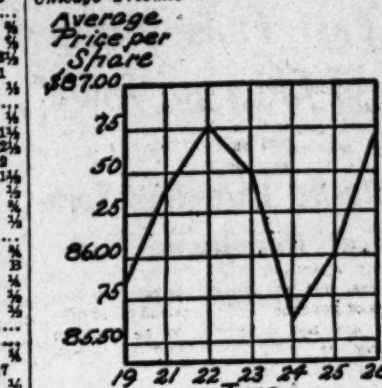

But it is not likely it can be used on account of the income tax, which it is confidently predicted will be doubled in the next budget.

At any rate, the conditions of the loan in America cannot be used to modify the exchange situation between New York and London and establish a fixed rate of exchange, about which there has been so much discussion in financial circles.

Paris Watches British Loan. PARIS, June 27.—Loans form the dominant subject of conversation in financial circles here, and especially the Great British national loan of $5,000,000,000. Its success in French eyes is assured because of the financial courage and foresight displayed in its conception and also because it is a promise of support.

$100 Investment Bonds

Owing to the constantly increasing demand for bonds in small denominations we have adopted the policy of having a definite proportion of all our original issues made in $100 denomination.

The smaller bonds are issued under the same trust deed; have precisely the same security as the $500 and $1000 bonds, and are readily exchangeable for larger denominations when the investor has accumulated a sufficient amount of the smaller bonds.

Recognizing the fact that the safe investment of a small fund is frequently of relatively greater importance to the individual than the investment of a large amount by the investor of greater means, we wish to assure the small investor that we have provided for him precisely the same service and security as for the investor of large means.

PLAN REORGANIZATION OF WABASH-PITTSBURGH.

New York, June 27.—A definite plan of reorganization of the Wabash-Pittsburgh Terminal Railway company has been formulated and is ready for submission to the bondholders. It was announced here today by the reorganization committee.

The plan gives first mortgage bonds 8 per cent dividends on the preferred stock for a cash payment of 50 per cent. Under the plan the property is retained intact.

The Wabash-Pittsburgh Terminal Railway company was forced into the receiver's hands nearly twelve years ago, following the collapse of George J. Gould's plan for a trunk line from the Atlantic to the Pacific. It was a proposed connecting link with the Missouri Pacific and Wabash systems.

A SUGGESTION TO THE PUBLIC —FROM A— STREET-CAR CONDUCTOR

The First Result of Our Recent Letter to Our Men

Following the recent strike on our lines we sent a letter to 12,000 of our employes, including all of our trainmen. The letter was then published in the newspapers. It was a sort of "let-us-try-to-deserve-the-good-will-of-the-public" letter, an appeal for the co-operation of our men and for courtesy to the public.

The letter stated that we were going to buy some advertising space in the newspapers for our employes, and would ask them to present to the public their own suggestions for the improvement of the service.

HERE IS THE FIRST LETTER

received in response to ours. We believe that it contains a suggestion which will appeal instantly to every one.

"CHICAGO SURFACE LINES, Chicago.

"Dear Sirs:

"Your letter meets with the hearty approval of the trainmen in your employ and has already taken the desired effect. If you will permit me to offer a suggestion which may be beneficial to all concerned, I am sure the best results can be obtained.

"ASK THE PEOPLE TO WRITE OF ANY COURTESIES EXTENDED BY CONDUCTORS OR MOTORMEN THAT ARE WORTHY OF MENTION, THE SAME TO BE USED AS A MARK OF CREDIT TO THE SAID TRAINMEN.

"I assure you, you will be pleased with the future service from the trainmen, as there has been a marked improvement already."

The above letter was written by a conductor from the Kedzie Avenue station. It goes to the heart of this whole matter of service in a very direct way.

THE HEART OF THE SERVICE QUESTION

This conductor says that when he extends to the public some courtesy "worthy of mention," it will make him feel a lot better if he knows it is appreciated, and if he knows he is going to get some credit for it with the Management. He intimates that this course is bound to result in still more courtesies to the public, and that if the public reciprocates, it will bring about a situation where there will be nearly enough courtesy for everybody.

From time to time we receive a great many complaints against our men with reference to such matters as running by passengers, closing the door in the face of people who wish to get on, starting the car too quickly, discourteous or uncivil answers to questions, etc.

These occurrences are wholly unnecessary. It is from conduct of this nature that both the Company and the employes reap a harvest of complaint and criticism. In every instance we endeavor to investigate these complaints carefully and impartially, and to take such action as the facts warrant. But, in the meantime, both the Company and the men have gained the ill will of one or more of our patrons.

YOU WANT GOOD SERVICE—WE WANT TO GIVE IT

We have constantly invited criticisms of the service and suggestions for its improvement, and we shall continue to do so as the best means of getting a line on our service from the standpoint of the public.

We are as anxious as any of our patrons possibly can be to rid our service of all such grounds of criticism and complaint, and we believe that the great majority of our men feel the same way about it.

YOU CAN HELP US TO DO IT

But here is a new suggestion from this conductor on a side of the service question which is generally overlooked. His suggestion to the public is: If you think a conductor or a motorman is entitled to credit for some kindness or courtesy, or for the efficient way in which he does his work, won't you be good enough to show your appreciation by writing a letter, telling this to the Management?

APPRECIATION HELPS EVERYBODY

The effect of this is bound to be that our men will have the matter of courtesy and attention to the public more in mind than ever. They will feel that their side of the situation is being treated fairly, and that they will get whatever credit is due them. This will help the men, the Management and the public.

If the people will follow this suggestion and write us regarding any courtesies extended to them which they think are "worthy of mention," we will see that such letters are made a part of the trainmen's record. We will see that each employe is promptly notified, not only of your appreciation of his conduct, but that your letter has been credited to his record.

of Women's Fine Wearing Apparel

Ever Held in Chicago

EVERY garment carries a mark of distinction and smartness, and the assortments offer a tremendous latitude for choice, and this great quantity of merchandise is composed entirely of styles that were made for this season's business and with a view of appealing strongly to our most fashionable women.

There never has been a time in Chicago when you could purchase such beautiful things for women to wear for so small an amount of money as here this week.

The values will be so tempting that many people will be inclined to buy three or four times as much as they want, hence the rule, which we positively adhere to in these sales, that

Nothing Purchased Can Be Returned or Exchanged

Therefore, when you get all you want you are supposed to stop, no matter how many temptations surround you.

See the page announcement of this sale in yesterday's (Sunday) papers.
